
RENAISSANCE

QUARTERLY NEWSLETTER OF THE ASSOCIATION FOR THE DEVELOPMENT OF THE PERSON-CENTERED APPROACH

Volume 4, Number 2, 1987

"I have come to feel that the only learning which significantly influences behavior is self-discovered..."

Carl R. Rogers

ASSOCIATION TO CONDUCT GOAL-SETTING SESSION DURING THIRD PCA FORUM

David J. Cain

The Association for the Development of the Person-Centered Approach will hold a meeting to develop future goals during the Third International Forum for the Person-Centered Approach which will be held in La Jolla, California from August 7-14.

The Association's first annual meeting was held in Chicago in September, 1986. During that meeting several persons volunteered to coordinate several areas of the Association. These included: (1) the tape library, (2) membership, (3) international news and activities, (4) the newsletter, (5) the activities and events calendar, and (6) ongoing development. We also decided to wait and hold our second annual meeting in 1988 in New York in order not to discourage attendance at the Third International Forum. However, the Association will meet during the Third Forum on August 11, from 2:00pm to 5:30pm.

Our main purpose in meeting will be to review our present goals and purposes and to develop goals for the following year and for the next five years. In addition we will develop a plan of implementation for these short-term and long-term goals. Our goals and purposes will then be reviewed and augmented at our annual meetings. Hopefully, we will get more members involved in the shaping and implementing of our Association's purposes.

Some goals are already forming. First, it would be desirable to increase our membership from 150-200 to several times that number. Toward this end more efforts will be made to encourage membership from other countries. A related goal is to encourage the creation of local chapters of the ADPCA. Thus far, chapters are being developed in Chicago, Illinois, Greensboro, North Carolina and in Hamburg, Germany! Another goal is to develop by-laws which clearly

(See Goal-Setting page 2)

MEMORIES OF CARL ROGERS

Tom Mausolff

Not long ago, as I arrived for a meeting of our co-counseling group, a young man who knew my sources of inspiration drew me aside and said abruptly: "I just heard on the radio today that Carl Rogers has died." Inside I felt: "Wow! So soon? I'm not ready..." In front of everyone standing around talking, I broke into tears for a few moments. This was my response to the news about a teacher last seen 30 years ago, and mostly known through his books and tapes over the years.

My earliest memory of Carl is Chicago, 1952. I had read his book, liked the democratic flavor, went to a public lecture at the Oriental institute which was unexpectedly crowded. Carl walked out onto the stage where a podium stood, wearing a colorful Hawaiian sport shirt, looked over the packed auditorium for a moment, and then in his unique way said: "Wow!..." (Since then, I have heard his exclamation many times on recordings.) During his talk I discovered an author as simple and direct and real as his writings. This had not often been my experience of prominent authors.

Later, I took a course, Introduction to Counseling with Carl. It was a class of 10 or 15 persons held in the front rows of the theater of the Education Building. Throughout the course he was heckled by a student who sat far in the back of the hall, asking what felt to me like hostile rhetorical questions, mostly from a Psychoanalytic frame of reference. Carl patiently summarized each question of objection, usually more clearly than had the questioner, then asked us, the class, for any comments we might want to make, and then finally would offer his own opinion. This was before his professorship at Wisconsin, and one time the old question was raised: "What about a seriously disturbed person, a patient in a mental hospital, would this method go deep define our structure and functioning.

(See Memories page 2)

Goal-Setting

(Continued from first page)

Since our newsletter, Renaissance, is our major mode of communication, it seems desirable to assess its effectiveness in serving members and explore ways in which it could meet a variety of needs most optimally.

Another desirable goal for the Association is to offer members, other professionals and interested lay persons more opportunities to learn about the person-centered approach and its application to a broad range of human relations. Our Association members have vast resources and skills in areas such as psychotherapy, education, parenting, psychology, supervision and training, consulting, organizational development, health care and others which could be made more available. Therefore, we might also want to consider developing more courses, workshops and training programs to meet these needs. A few days ago I learned about a program offered by one of the worlds most talented magicians, David Copperfield. His "Project Magic" program teaches magic to hospitalized inpatients to help them regain manual dexterity lost through injury or disease and to help improve their self-esteem. What is remarkable is that Project Magic, in only five years, has reached 500 hospitals in 30 countries! Imagine the kinds of projects our Association might develop to assist persons in need.

Our potential to make a significant difference in the lives of individuals and groups all over the U.S. and in other countries is remarkable. However, we need to continue to develop a clear sense of our goals and then means by which we can implement them. My hope is that many of you will involve yourselves in the process of determining our future directions and purposes and transforming our visions into realities. If you are unable to attend the ADPCA meeting, I hope you will share with me your perceptions of our Association and your hopes for its ongoing development.

1986 DIRECTORY

If any of you have not received last year's (1986) Membership Directory, please let me know and I will send it to you.

Memories

(Continued from first page)

enough?" Carl, as usual, asked us for our contributions, which were few that time, and then he said something like this: "Well, my feeling is that if any kind of interview therapy would be helpful, Client-Centered Therapy would." No more and no less on the topic.

That was my last face-to-face exposure to Carl Rogers. What he gave us in that class, was a sense of himself, the sense of a person who is quietly sure it is all right to be himself, and a model from which we might learn.

Why had this man become so central to my life? In anthropology, one distinguishes between Magic, defined as the attempt to manipulate events, mostly by suggestion and autosuggestion, and Religion, defined as aligning oneself with the order of the whole system (of society, nature, the sacred) and affirming life as it is, as it is manifested in you and in me. The historically important thing to me about Carl Rogers is that he helped, not only psychotherapy but human relations in general, move from being a bag of suggestive tricks to something more like true religion or poetry, by teaching us how to affirm what is.

More personally, I am grateful for this teacher of acceptance and prizing, who came into my life in Chicago with his unaffected "Wow", who in one demonstration session explained his view that a client can own a period of silence. If a client wants to have five or fifteen or more minutes of silence, "That's all right with me..." spoken in his effortlessly accepting way.

These two characteristic exclamations of his will not be directly audible again. No one has given more emphasis than he to the uniqueness of each person. As the library cards show, we each have our two dates, our time to be here awhile and help each other, and perhaps each in our own flawed way add a little beauty to the human scene, land then we are gone. Yes, it is all right, Carl, that you have your two dates, but, as Wordsworth put it, but "Oh, the difference to me."

JOURNAL SUBSCRIPTION

Subscription to the Person-Centered Review is included in your membership to the Association. You will receive all four issues of the journal published during the year of your membership.

Should you have any problems with your journal subscription please call SAGE publications (805) 499-0721 and ask for assistance from Adeline Sarnowski. SAGE's address is 2111 West Hillcrest Drive, Newberry Park, CA 91320.

NEWSLETTER STAFF

Editor: David J. Cain
Associate Editor: Patrick Lee

CARL R. ROGERS
A Memorial Celebration:
London, Saturday May 30, 1987
 Brian Thorne

Saturday, May 30th, was a beautiful summer's day in London. St. Marylebone Church, close to the famous Madam Tussaud's and itself the parish church of Harley Street, is one of London's most elegant churches and is currently famed for its ambitious work in establishing a counselling and healing centre in the church crypt. Here, then, was the venue for the Memorial Celebration for Carl and more than three hundred people poured in shortly before eleven o'clock. They came from many different parts of the United Kingdom and included some from Continental Europe. Many old friends were meeting again for the first time for several years. The atmosphere was warm, reflective and expectant.

The Celebration Service took the form of a number of "appreciations" of Carl and his work interspersed with readings from his own writings. There was an exquisite musical interlude in the middle provided by a student currently training with the Facilitator Development Institute (British Centre) who in a talented oboeist. The appreciations and the readings gave a magnificently rounded picture of Carl the man and Carl the professional. The appreciations, particularly, given by David Mearns (Scotland), Pol Verhelst (Belgium), Reinhard Tausch and Beate Hofmeister (Germany) provided fascinating insights into the many and varied ways in which Carl deeply influenced people's lives, often profoundly changing the course and direction of their aspirations. And yet he did this not through the imposition of his personal power but by his ability to confer almost instantaneous value on others so that they were enabled, often for the first time, to listen to their own voices with true attentiveness.

After the Service many were able to adjourn to a neighboring park for a picnic and further reunions. All felt deeply moved and quietly happy at having known a man whose influence is incalculable. For me it seemed particularly appropriate that during the time the Service was in progress, under our very feet in the crypt counseling was taking place. I think Carl would have enjoyed that.

CALL FOR PERSON-CENTERED TAPES

A library of Audio and Video tapes demonstrating person-centered approaches to therapy, supervision, consultation and teaching is being developed for distribution through the Association. We would also welcome tapes of talks or lectures you may have given. The tapes will be made available for purchase for a modest fee. Association members may purchase these tapes at a 10% discount. The Client's last name, should, of course, be omitted from the tape.

Persons interested in submitting tapes for distribution should send the tape along with the following information about the client(s):

1. Age, sex and brief description;
2. Issues addressed or goal of the intervention;
3. A brief narrative indicating interesting aspects of the intervention including specific ways in which person-centered concepts or therapeutic styles are illustrated.

If the tape is of a lecture or talk, please indicate the topic, date, and the group addressed.

Persons submitting tapes will need to submit a release signed by the client which authorizes permission to copy and distribute the tapes to other therapists for professional use. The release must have the client's original signature.

Tapes should be submitted to: David J. Cain, Ph.D., at the Person-Centered Association.

THIRD INTERNATIONAL FORUM
 Suzanne M. Spector

Approximately 150 people from 22 countries on 6 continents have registered for the FORUM, including 10 people from Eastern bloc countries. The Center for Studies of the Person has completed a program design that incorporates ongoing encounter groups, daily community meetings, social activities such as a beach party, and presentations and workshops by 50 participants.

One feature of the week will be an International College, in which participants from each country will get together to prepare a brief statement on PCA in their country to present to the community so we can have an overview of PCA around the world. This one event may be videotaped.

Dr. Alexei Matyuskin, Director of the Institute of General and Educational Psychology of the USSR Academy of Pedagogical Science in Moscow will be visiting the FORUM. Dr. Matyuskin is the person who invited Carl Rogers to Russia last Fall and arranged for publication in Russia of Carl's book, Freedom to Learn for the 80's. He and Carl wrote a paper together on Creativity, which is being published in Russia.

FORUM registration is still open, but should be mailed at once to Suzanne Spector at CSP, 1125 Torrey Pines Road, La Jolla, CA 92037.

MEMBERSHIP BENEFITS INCLUDE

1. Subscription to the Person-Centered Review (quarterly journal);
2. Subscription to the Association newsletter, RENAISSANCE (quarterly);
3. A copy of the Association Resource Directory;
4. Free listing in the Directory;
5. Discounts on the Association's Annual Meeting;
6. Discounts on the Association's Tape Library.

APPLICATION

Name _____

Address _____

City _____

State _____ Zip Code _____

General Membership $45/$50 out of US

I would like to make a contribution of:

$100___ $50___ $25___ $10___

Send to:
 Person-Centered Association
 2831 Cedarwood Way, Carlsbad CA 92008

NEWSHEET

Zack Boukydis at the Center for Supportive Community is announcing "Focusing and Listening in Practice." He is offering ongoing training in peer counseling in their Sunday Night group. Every week there is training on focusing, empathic listening, facilitating listening in groups, interpersonal processing, and how to start a supportive peer counseling group in your work, or living situation. After initial training, the group functions as an ongoing, supportive peer counseling exchange. Also, advanced feedback is available to people who want to continue to learn. To find out more go to their monthly Open House (first Sunday of each month). There is no cost. Just come, watch a demonstration and ask your questions. Call in advance.

To join, people are asked to commit themselves to an initial ten sessions ($5.00/session x 10 sessions = $50.00). After the first ten sessions, the cost is $2.50/session. The training manual "Building Supportive Community: Listening and Focusing Through Peer Counseling" (by Kathleen McGuire) is available, as is a practice tape on Focusing. Write: Center for Supportive Community, 186 Hampshire St., Cambridge MA, 02139, 846-5866.

Zack Boukydis is also offering a Focusing Class on Tuesdays from 9-10:30pm. The course is appropriate for both beginners and people with experience using the process of focusing in a quiet, reflective way. Each session will involve both group practice exercises, individual consultation, and working in focusing pairs. The cost is $120-150 for ten sessions (cost based on a sliding scale). Call 522-3254.

Kenneth von Thaden is seeking supervisor, mentor and support. Having completed a Bachelor of Science degree with New York State's Empire State College, majoring in Counseling Psychology, I recently enrolled at Goddard College in Vermont pursuing a Master's of Arts degree in Counseling Psychology. Throughout my studies, I have been strongly influenced by the client/person centered approach to counseling. Unfortunately, my contact with person-centered work has been limited to readings and attendance at the LaJolla Program and the ADPCA meeting at Chicago. My development as a counselor has now brought me to a point where I need to have direct contact with other individuals who are deeply rooted in the person-centered approach to counseling. I have a need for supervised counseling that can fulfill certification requirements and a need for a mentor and support for my own personal development and growth. I am located in upstate New York and for several reasons, my ability to commute and spend long periods away from home are restricted. Therefore, I need assistance to contact the right people and to develop a creative solution to fulfill my requirements. If you can assist in this quest for a supervisor, mentor and support please contact me: Box 601, Cobleskill, NY 12043, (518) 234-4216.

Nil Moore is announcing creation of the Southeastern Chapter of the Association. The first meeting of the chapter of the Association will be held on Tuesday, September 22nd, from 7:30-9:00pm at School of Education, Curry Building, Faculty Lounge, Room 230, University of North Carolina at Greensboro, North Carolina. Call Nil Moore at (919) 273-3432 or 334-5100 Ext. 82 or send her a note at 903 W. McGee Street, Greensboro, NC 27403, if you plan to attend.

BACK ISSUES OF RENAISSANCE AVAILABLE

The Editors on RENAISSANCE would like to announce that back issues of the newsletter are available for $2.50 an issue. The following is a list of articles published in each issue.

1. Volume 1, Number 1. "Person-Centered Therapy Network Forming," by David J. Cain. "Functional Dimensions of the Person-Centered Approach in Therapy," by Jerold D. Bozarth. Book Review: Counseling and Therapy Skills, by David G. Martin, 1983.
2. Volume 1, Number 2. "The Form of Relationship in Client-Centered Therapy," by W. R. Coulson. "The Evolution of Person-Centered Therapy: The Rochester Years," by David J. Cain.
3. Volume 1, Number 3. "Learning Through Human Encounters," by Nathaniel J. Raskin. "Second International Forum in Norwich, England," by David J. Cain.
4. Volume 1, Number 4. "Tenderness in Psychotherapy," by Brian Thorns. "Networking: Sharing Our Resources," by David J. Cain.
5. Volume 2, Number 1. "Criteria for Making Empathic Understanding Responses in Client-Centered Therapy," by Barbara Temaner Brodley. "Person-Centered Journal Founded," by David J. Cain. "The Evolution of Person-Centered Therapy: The Ohio State Years," by David J. Cain. Book Review: Counseling and Psychotherapy, by Carl Rogers, 1942.
6. Volume 2, Number 2. "A Person-Centered Communication System," by Ann Weiser. "Training Programs in Person-Centered Therapies. I. Center for Studies of the Person, written by Maureen O'Hara. II. The Chicago Center, written by Norton Knopf. III. The Center for Interpersonal Growth, written by Peggy Natiello. IV. Center for Supportive Community, written by Kathy McGuire. V. The Expressive Therapy Institute, written by Natalie Rogers."
7. Volume 2, Number 3. "Person-Centered Therapy, Therapists, and Marital and Family Relationship Enhancement Therapies: Relationships," by Bernard Guernsey. "The Person-Centered Approach in Education," by Bobbi Hansen.
8. Volume 2, Number 4. "Peace Meeting held in Austria," by Carl R. Rogers and Gay Leah Swenson. "An Invitational Approach to Human Development," by William Watson Purkey.
9. Volume 3, Number 1. "Learning Client-Centered Therapy," by William Safarjan. "New Directions in 1986," by David J. Cain.
10. Volume 3, Number 2. "Some Thoughts About the Future of the Person-Centered Approach," by Maria C. Villas-Boas Bowen. "Another View of Our Future," by David J. Cain.
11. Volume 3, Number 3. "First Annual Meeting: A Subjective report by Nat Raskin." "A Third View of Our Future After Chicago," by Suzanne Spector. "Members' Involvement in Association Increasing," by David J. Cain.
12. Volume 3, Number 4. "The Future of the Person-Centered Approach: The Discussion Continues," by Rogerio Christiano Buys. "Bridging Gaps in an Association for the Development of the Person-Centered Approach," by Kenneth von Thaden.

Mail requests to: David J. Cain, Editor RENAISSANCE, at the Person-Centered Association.

Tape Library

1. Dialogue With Carl Rogers

A dialogue between Carl Rogers and the participants in the Second International Forum for the Person-Centered Approach held in Norwich, England from July 14-21, 1984. The discussion is periodically translated into French.

1 1/2 hours Good Audio $8.00

2. Panel Discussion of Client-Centered Therapy

A six member panel present their views on various aspects of client-centered/person-centered therapy during the Second International forum for the Person-Centered Approach held in Norwich, England from July 14-21, 1984. Panel discussions include Drs. Barbara Temaner, Jerold Bozarth, Nat Raskin, John Schlien, Carl Rogers and Leif Braatan.

2 hours Good Audio $10.00

3. Carl Rogers Talk & Discussion

Carl Rogers offers some of his thoughts regarding the distinctive aspects of the client-centered / person-centered approach to therapy followed by a discussion with participants attending the La Jolla Program in July, 1984.

1 hour Good Audio $6.00

4. Client-Centered Therapy Demonstrations and Discussion - Bob Lee, Ph.D.

Dr. Bob Lee is a client-centered therapist, close associate of Carl Rogers and a member of the core staff of the recently founded Carl Rogers Institute of Psychotherapy, Training and Supervision. This session is with a middle-aged man attempting to modify his tendencies to be controlling. The session is followed by a discussion by Dr. Lee, the client and the participants of the La Jolla program held in July, 1984.

1 1/2 hours Good Audio $8.00

5. Maurice Friedman on Martin Buber and Client-Centered Therapy

Dr. Maurice Friedman, a philosopher, therapist, author of several books and authority on Martin Buber discusses Buber's ideas in relationship to those of Carl Rogers during the July, 1984 La Jolla program.

1 1/2 hours Excellent Audio $8.00

6. Continuing Controversy in Client-Centered Therapy - David J. Cain

In this tape many of the most controversial aspects of Client-Centered Therapy are discussed from an historical perspective and in terms of how issues as directiveness, diagnosis and training therapists continue to stir strong feelings from critics of this approach.

1 1/2 hours Good Audio $8.00

7. Client-Centered Therapy and Eclecticism

Dr. C. H. Patterson, the author of The Therapeutic Relationship (1985) and Theories of Counseling and Psychotherapy (4th Ed, 1985) proposes that the core relationship conditions of Client-Centered Therapy are the basic common elements for a systematic eclectic psychotherapy.

1 1/2 hours Good Audio $8.00

8. A Model for Facilitating Interpersonal Relations

In this presentation, Dr. Patterson describes the theoretical base for all facilitative interpersonal relations. Draws on the work of Maslow, Rogers and others.

1 1/2 hours Good Audio $8.00

All tapes must be paid for in advance by check, payable to:

Person-Centered Association
2831 Cedarwood Way
Carlsbad, CA 92008

ACTIVITIES, EVENTS AND PROGRAMS

Third International Forum on the Person-Centered Approach

August 7-14, 1987, La Jolla, California, U.S.A. Themes: Diversity, Commonality, Integration. Sponsored by the Center for Studies of the Person. The Center staff states, "We chose this theme with the hope that by sharing our similar and different points of view we may enrich each other, and go beyond our self-imposed boundaries. It is also our hope that together we may call on our creativity to discover ways in which the cognitive and affective may be integrated." For information, write to Suzanne Spector, Coordinator, CSP Forum Committee, Center for Studies of the Person, 1125 Torrey Pines Road, La Jolla, CA 92037 U.S.A.

Indepth Training Program in the Person-Centered Approach

The program is designed to bring together person-centered theory and practice in an interactive group process. The theoretical content will include the basic hypothesis, attitudinal skills, and underlying philosophy of the person-centered approach; past and present research studies; application of the approach to institutional and social change. The format consists of ten monthly weekends per year beginning in October and ending in June.

Carl Rogers wrote about this Program: "To a surprising degree this program provides a situation in which professional skills and personal growth are both enhanced within the same group. In my judgement it is an excellent laboratory for producing growing professional persons."

Staff: Peggy Natiello, Curtis Graf and guest seminar presenters. Location and information: Center for Interpersonal Growth, Box 271, Port Jefferson, New York 11777, (516) 331-2061.

International Conference

Inviting Wellness in Young People

Focus on inviting wellness in young people, wholistic health, interpersonal relationships, aesthetic living, and mental well-being. July 8-10, 1987 at the Sheraton Hotel, Greensboro, North Carolina. Registration $150. Sponsored by the International Alliance for Invitational Education, Dr. William W. Purkey. Information: Curry Building, School of Education, UNC-Greensboro, Greensboro NC 27412, (919) 334-5100.

1987 La Jolla Programs

July 19- August 1. This is an excellent opportunity to experience the small group described in Carl Rogers on Encounter Groups. The program includes discussions led by guest speakers, but the emphasis is on the experiential, the small group, the community meeting, the exchanges between individuals as ways of learning more about person-centered therapy, and how to help others and one's self. Tuition: $365.

August 2-7. This workshop in person-centered therapy is based more on the presentations of individuals who have spent much of their professional and social lives concerned with the issues and methods formulated by Dr. Rogers. There are also films, demonstrations of therapy, and unstructured small groups. Tuition: $200.

Location: Campus of Univ. of Calif., San Diego. For Information write: Bruce Meador, Center for Studies of the Person, 1125 Torrey Pines Rd., La Jolla, CA 92037 U.S.A. (619) 459-3861.

Living Now Institute

July 10-19, 1987. Theme: Conflict and Closeness: The Search for Harmony. Guest Speaker: Sam Keen, author of Faces of the Enemy. Topic: On loving Combat. Location: Univ. of San Diego Campus, La Jolla, CA U.S.A. Residential staff: Gay Swenson, Norm Chambers, Nel Kandel, Charles O'Leary, Arlene Wiltberger, Alberto Zucconi. For Information write: Gay Swenson, Center for Studies of the Person, 1125 Torrey Pines Rd., La Jolla, CA 92037 U.S.A. (619) 459-3861.

ACTIVITIES, EVENTS AND PROGRAMS

(Continued from page five)

Person-Centered Expressive Therapy Institute

4th International Training Program in Person Centered Expressive Therapy for professionals and students. Purpose is to enhance your abilities to use methods of creative arts therapy: Self-expression through movement, art, sound and visualization, theoretical and experiential work and developing a learning community. Staff, Natalie Rogers, Frances Fuchs, Ben Hedges and others.

Level I - July 13-19, 1987 (6 days) $450 (open to everyone)

Level II - July 22-August 3, 1987 (10 days) $750

Location: Retreat center, San Francisco area.

For information write: Person-Centered Expressive Therapy Institute, 1515 Reibli Road, Santa Rosa, CA 95404. (707) 523-0203.

The Carl Rogers Institute of Psychotherapy Training & Supervision

The goals of the Institute are to provide extensive training and supervision for trainees, interns, and practitioners, to offer low-cost psychotherapy for the San Diego community, and to develop a network of clinical and other scholars whose principal focus will be the study, research, and development of client-centered psychotherapy. A special feature of the institute is to provide instruction and training designed to maximize the effectiveness of practitioners when working with persons from culturally diverse populations. The Institute will conduct four training programs each year. Regular programs, four months in duration, will be offered each January-April, May-August, and September-December, and a special one-month intensive program will be offered once each year, usually in January. For more information write to Norman E. Chambers, Center for Studies of the Person, 1125 Torrey Pines Road, La Jolla, California (619) 459-3861.

Training in Focusing

The Focusing Institute offers weekend intensive workshops in Focusing in Chicago with Dr. Gene Gendlin & the Focusing Institute Staff. They begin on the last Friday of each month with 31 days (except December). Also, the Focusing Institute offers 2 week-long Experiential Focusing/Listening Retreats. One in November and the other in August. For further information please write to Focusing, c/o Amy Gottschalk, 5848 S. University Ave., Chicago, IL 60637, (312) 962-8869.

The Fatherhood Project

The Fatherhood Course - for both married and single fathers to improve communication and child management skills. Fee: $100.
Discussion Group for Single Fathers - to develop skills to work out their relationships with ex-spouses and children. Fee: $100.
Workshops for Parents: Becoming Parents, Co-Parenting, Single Parenting, Step-Parenting, and Coping with Joint Custody.
Location: School of Education, Boston University, 605 Commonwealth Ave., Boston Massachusetts 02215, Room 364B.
For further information: Call Dr. Ronald Levant, Director, The Fatherhood Project, (617) 353-4227.

PERSON-CENTERED ASSOCIATION

Person-Centered Association
2831 Cedarwood Way
Carlsbad, CA 92008

